
BOURNE MEDICAL PRACTICE

LOWER BOURNE, FARNHAM

The Bourne Surgery had been seeking an alternative site for a new surgery for some years, as the domestic extension that they were occupying had become quite unsuitable. In conjunction with the developer, a nearby site was identified in a former orchard and following a sensitive Planning process, approval was eventually granted.

The practice were clear from the outset that the internal design was to avoid a domestic style and this resulted in brightly-lit spaces, exploiting height wherever possible, and a bold colour scheme throughout. The external appearance was tempered by a planning requirement for a traditional appearance, but a contemporary style was introduced where possible.

The new building enjoys quiet views overlooking the surrounding landscaping and provides spacious accommodation designed to modern clinical standards. Patients and staff alike have been very pleased with the result.
